CADS 3

CADS 3 is a Unix-based system that is suited to customers demanding call accounting and directory performance for large telecommunications networks. This high performance, scalable and reliable system is ideal for larger organisations such as government departments, universities, financial institutions and hospitals. CADS 3 offers local, regional, and national networking and can be customised to meet individual needs - for instance, interfacing to other software systems such as accounting packages or HR management tools.

CADSWin

CADSWin is a Microsoft Windows based system which can run on Windows 2000 or XP. It is ideal for small, medium or large organisations because of its flexibility and ease of use. CADSWin has a Windows 'look and feel' and the reports can be automated, as well as output into standard applications such as Word and Excel for ease of distribution (e.g. via email)
